

SOCRATICA 2008

On December 2008 an international conference entitled Socratica 2008. Seconde giornate di studio sulla letteratura socratica antica was held in Naples (Italy). The symposium was the follow-up of the Socratica meeting held in 2005 in Senigallia (the proceedings of which appeared in 2008). Another one is scheduled for 2011.

The scientific aim of these conferences is to provide a broad approach to the context of Plato's work: Socrates, the Socratics as a group, Xenophon, the other Socratics who were direct pupils (or friends) of Socrates, the ancient Socratic literature as a whole. As such, the Socratica meetings are meant to be parallel to the Symposia Platonica, and it is no chance that the International Plato Society is one of their official sponsors, together with the Istituto Italiano per gli Studi Filosofici (Naples).

The 2008 edition was coordinated by Livio Rossetti (Università di Perugia), Franco Ferrari (Università di Salerno), Giovanni Casertano and Lidia Palumbo (both Università di Napoli "Federico II") and Alessandro Stavru (Università di Napoli "L'Orientale"). The basic information is currently available in www.socratica.eu

On August 2010, the proceedings of the 2008 edition were officially presented at the IX Symposium Platonicum in Tokyo. The book, co-edited by Livio Rossetti and Alessandro Stavru, is entitled Socratica 2008. Studies in Ancient Socratic Literature (Bari 2010, Levante ed., 353 p., € 32). It includes a substantial Introduction where pages 11-47 are meant to give a detailed survey of the most recent literature on the topics mentioned above.
